

EC560 - General Computing Lab

EC560 is now a general computing lab for use by all SECS students. Each computer in the lab has four different images, one for each department. The images are:

- Electrical Engineering (ECE)
- Mechanical Engineering (ME)
- Computer Science and Engineering (CSE)
- Industrial Systems Engineering (ISE)

How to Use the Computers

When you start to use the computers, they should be at a black and white screen with the four departmental images listed. If it is not at this screen, restart the computer. To select the image you want to boot, use the up and down directional arrows to highlight your choice and hit enter to load it. The computer will boot into the desired image and will have all of the software that the labs would have in the respective department.

Leaving the Computer Lab

When you are finished, please restart or log off of the computer. The computer will reboot on log off. Please do not shut down the computers as this will keep them from updating and will result in longer start up and log in times.
